Hit and Run Awareness Month: Stay at the Scene

Campaign Evaluation Report

STAY AT THE SCENE

#StayAtTheSceneFL

If you're involved in a crash, stay at the scene and call for help. You could save a life, as well as avoid costly fines and criminal charges.

If you have any info on a hit and run crash, report anonymously to your local Crime Stoppers.

Background

Under Florida law, a driver must stop immediately at the scene of a crash, on public or private property, which results in property damage, injury and/or death. If the crash involves property damage, leaving the scene is classified as a second degree misdemeanor, with penalties up to 60 days in jail and a $500 fine. Leaving the scene of a crash resulting in injury or death is a third or first degree felony and a driver, when convicted, will have their license revoked for at least three years and can be sentenced to a mandatory minimum of four years in prison. Penalties for a hit and run with injury can be up to five years in prison or five years of probation and a $5,000 fine, and drivers leaving the scene of a crash with a fatality could be sentenced up to 30 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Throughout the Hit and Run Awareness month-long campaign, the department educated the public regarding hit and runs, including: Florida law and the consequences regarding leaving the scene of the crash, the challenges law enforcement face when investigating a hit and run crash and what motorists should do when involved in a crash or witness a hit and run crash. In addition to the educational part of the campaign, FHP’s Public Affairs Officers (PAO) conducted press conferences throughout the month of February and the department partnered with Crime Stoppers USA, sending posters statewide and including information in their newsletter.

February 1-28, 2018
Hit and Run Awareness: Stay at the Scene Campaign Evaluation Report - February 1-28, 2018

Data
Preliminarily, there were 98,225 hit and run crashes in 2017. From 2013 to 2017, hit and run crashes increased 25 percent, decreasing slightly by three percent from 2016 to 2017. The majority of hit and run crashes, 85 percent in 2017 preliminarily, resulted in property damage. Fatalities from a hit and run crash increased 19 percent from 2014 to 2017. Overall, hit and run charges have gone up since 2014, but the total number of charges issued is low compared to the number of hit and run crashes reported; 12,185 were issued in 2017.

Target Market
Primary: Florida’s motorists ages 18-29 who received the most hit and run citations in 2017. Male drivers were involved in 70 percent of hit and run crashes.
Secondary: Florida’s Spanish-speaking motorists
According to the data, the highest numbers of hit and run crashes occurred and charges were issued in Miami-Dade, Broward and Orange counties which have large Spanish-speaking populations; therefore, the department will provide Spanish versions of printed materials and advertisements, especially for these target markets.
